This isn't your mom's school library...wait, it may be her school library memory

This article is the first in the new "Off The Shelf" column of the Lebanon County Library Association, written by Pam Raytick, Librarian, Cornwall-Lebanon School District. Find more articles at lebcolibraryassociation.wordpress.com

Brainstorming topics for this edition of This Isn't Your Mom's School Library, I fondly recalled the former library at Cedar Crest Middle School, which led to this month's topic: school library memories. I hope these take you back.

This one brought a tear to my eye

"I went to St. Mary's (Our Lady of The Valley) on Willow Street. The library there was amazing. All carved, polished wood, which now reminds me of a scene from Harry Potter. I took out the same book for weeks on end, called Rosebud. When the primary school relocated to Lebanon Catholic, the librarian, Mrs. Pelepko, gave me the book to keep."

Sometimes the librarian makes the memory

"At Union Canal Elementary School, Mrs. Vranesic had us research a tall tale figure. We essentially made a biography for them, dressed up like the person, and presented it to the rest of the class. I was Paul Bunyan. I dressed in all tan with a blue vest and made a cardboard axe. We did this when Tall Tale was coming to theaters, so it was a fun tie in and got us engaged with the lesson."
